MEMORANDUM OF UNDERSTANDING BETWEEN THE TEMECULA-ELSINORE-ANZA-MURRIETA RESOURCE CONSERVATION DISTRICT AND INLAND EMPIRE RESOURCE CONSERVATION DISTRICT

This Memorandum of Understanding ("MOU") is entered into by and between the Temecula-Elsinore-Anza-Murrieta Resource Conservation District ("TEAM RCD"), a California resource conservation district, and the Inland Empire Resource Conservation District ("IERCD"), a California resource conservation district (TEAM RCD and IERCD may each be referred to separately as a "Party" or together as the "Parties" or the "Districts").

RECITALS

WHEREAS, pursuant to Public Resources Code section 9001, the California Legislature has found that resource conservation is of fundamental importance to the prosperity and welfare of the state and has authorized resource conservation districts to organize and operate for the purposes of soil and water conservation, among other purposes, in open areas, agricultural areas, urban areas, wildlife areas, and residential areas; and

WHEREAS, TEAM RCD is a resource conservation district created and authorized pursuant to Public Resources Code section 9001 et seq., with a service area covering approximately 789 square miles in northwestern Riverside County; and

WHEREAS, TEAM RCD has recently changed its name from the Elsinore-Murrieta-Anza Resource Conservation District ("EMARCD"), a change which is now official but has no effect on any prior agreements or legal obligations in this MOU or otherwise; and

WHEREAS, IERCD is a neighboring resource conservation district also created and authorized pursuant to Public Resources Code section 9001 et seq., with a service area covering approximately 1,286 square miles in the Inland Empire region of San Bernardino and Riverside Counties; and

WHEREAS, TEAM RCD is in need of specific assistance in order to fulfill its public services within its service area, which TEAM RCD lacks employees to provide; and

WHEREAS, the Parties desire to enter into this MOU with each other to provide for cooperation between the Districts wherein IERCD's staff will provide needed services to TEAM RCD, to memorialize the rights and obligations of the Parties relating to such services, and to acknowledge that the Parties may rely on the necessary federal and/or state permits of either Party, as appropriate, for any work done under this MOU; and

WHEREAS, the services provided under this MOU would facilitate a strong partnership of mutual cooperation in providing opportunities for resource conservation and enhancement practices within TEAM RCD's service area.

AGREEMENT

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the above and the mutual covenants, terms and conditions contained herein, and pursuant to the laws of the State of California, TEAM RCD and IERCD hereby agree as follows:

1. Services: IERCD agrees, at its discretion, to make available to TEAM RCD, upon written request from TEAM RCD and when IERCD is capable of doing so, its employees and staff who are qualified to provide the specific activities and services ("Activities") within the jurisdiction of resource conservation districts requested by TEAM RCD. Such Activities shall include, but not be limited to, those set forth in Exhibit A, attached hereto and by this reference incorporated herein. TEAM RCD will identify what specific activities are required, what specific certifications or licenses are required, if any, and the expected duration of the subject activities.

2. Compensation: TEAM RCD will compensate IERCD for its use of IERCD employees, staff, and agents. Such compensation will be based on the hours of work performed for TEAM RCD and will be determined based on the current hourly rate of the IERCD employee(s), staff, or agent(s) performing those services, which will be disclosed to TEAM RCD before any work begins. The Parties agree that said payment will fulfill any obligation TEAM RCD may have to IERCD and to any IERCD employee, staff, or agent with respect to the payment of wages and any required benefits under the law, including Workers' Compensation insurance. To the extent allowed by law, TEAM RCD will also compensate IERCD for its use of federal and/or state permits for each project at a rate to be determined by the Parties at the time the project is contemplated.

3. Payment: IERCD shall provide to TEAM RCD a detailed invoice for all activities performed pursuant to this Agreement by the end of each quarter. TEAM RCD shall render payment to IERCD no later than forty-five (45) days after the receipt of any invoice or within three (3) business days of the next TEAM RCD Board of Directors' meeting following the receipt of the invoice, whichever is later. All invoices must identify: (1) the type of work provided, (2) the person(s) who performed such work, (3) the hourly rate of each person performing the work, (4) the date(s) of service, (5) the time spent providing such services, and (6) the total amount of the invoice in question.

4. Wage Payment: IERCD expressly agrees that it will be solely responsible for the payment of any and all wages due and owing its employees or contractors arising out of services to TEAM RCD pursuant to this Agreement and that all payments will be made in accordance with California, federal, and any other applicable law. IERCD further expressly agrees that it will be solely responsible for all required benefits owed to IERCD employees, staff, and agents, whether required by statute, rule, regulation, contract or otherwise.

5. Workers' Compensation: Pursuant to California Labor Code section 3602(d) and any other applicable law, TEAM RCD and IERCD further agree that, to the extent TEAM RCD is legally required to provide Workers' Compensation coverage related to the work provided for it by IERCD employees, IERCD has and will obtain Workers' Compensation coverage for any and all of its employees who provide services for TEAM RCD and that such Workers' Compensation coverage will specifically cover and encompass any and all work performed by IERCD for TEAM RCD pursuant to this Agreement. IERCD will advise TEAM RCD in the event that the required Workers' Compensation insurance is about to or expected to lapse.

6. Mutual Indemnification: TEAM RCD and IERCD shall each defend, indemnify, and hold the other party and its officials, officers, employees, consultants, subcontractors, volunteers, and agents harmless from any and all claims, demands, causes of action, costs, expenses, liability, loss, damage, or injury, in law or equity, to property or persons, to the extent arising out of incident to any negligent acts, omissions, or willful misconduct of the indemnifying party or its officials, officers, employees, consultants, subcontractors, volunteers, and agents arising out of or in connection with the performance of this Agreement, including, without limitation, the payment of all consequential damages and attorneys' fees and other related costs and expenses.

7. Insurance: IERCD shall procure and maintain during the period of performance of this MOU, and for twelve (12) months thereafter, adequate third party policies of insurance from an insurance company or companies authorized to do business in the State of California that covers any activities performed by IERCD under this Agreement. IERCD will advise TEAM RCD in the event that the required third party insurance is about to or expected to lapse. TEAM RCD shall be responsible for carrying adequate insurance for any TEAM RCD employee or facility related to any activities performed under this Agreement.

8. Term: The term of this Agreement shall be for the period of one (1) year from the date of full execution of this Agreement by both Parties ("Initial Term"). The term of this Agreement shall be automatically extended for additional one (1) year terms ("Extended Term" or "Extended Terms," as appropriate) unless either Party terminates the Agreement pursuant to Paragraph 9, below.

9. Amendment and Cancellation: This MOU shall be effective when signed by both Parties. It contains the entire agreement between the Parties with respect to the matters herein provided for. It may be amended only by mutual written consent of both Parties, and either Party may cancel this MOU at any time upon thirty(30) days' written notice by so notifying the other Party by certified mail. IERCD shall not be responsible to perform any work other than Activities requested in writing by TEAM RCD that have been agreed to by IERCD, and TEAM RCD shall only be responsible to pay for work TEAM RCD has requested in writing to IERCD.

MEMORANDUM

DATE: August 1, 2016

TO: CSDA Members (Regular, Associate, and Business Affiliate)

FROM: Bill Nelson, CSDA President
Neil McCormick, Chief Executive Officer

SUBJECT: 2017 CSDA Committee & Expert Feedback Team Participation

CSDA's strength and effectiveness as an organization is directly related to our ability to involve the member district board members and staff and Business Affiliate members in the work of the association. The talents and energy that both groups bring to CSDA and to the issues that concern special districts in California through active involvement are critical components of CSDA's success.

With this in mind, we are asking for volunteers from your district or company (staff and/or board members) to participate and contribute on one or more of our committees and/or expert feedback teams to assist in shaping CSDA.

If you or any others from your district or company would like to become even more involved as a member of CSDA, please review and complete the form included with this letter. Committees need dedicated participants who are able to expend the time to provide their expertise in directing the activities and policies of CSDA. CSDA does not reimburse for committee related travel expenses.

In regard to CSDA's Expert Feedback Teams, when a need for feedback arises on a particular policy matter, CSDA advocacy staff will send an e-mail to an expert feedback team asking for its input. Team members need only reply with their thoughts, opinions and experiences. The workload of a team member will ultimately be what he or she makes of it. Team members will not be required to travel; they should expect to receive a handful of e-mails each month and, on rare occasions, they may be contacted by phone.

Please return the attached form by 5:00 PM on October 14, 2016. The selection and ratification of CSDA's 2017 committees will take place in November and selected participants will be notified by the end of November 2016. Committee participation begins in January 2017.

New ag app by the Noble Foundation hits the market

The Samuel Roberts Noble Foundation launched a new app last week called "Ag Tools," a series of calculators that agricultural producers can use to crunch numbers and make more informed management decisions. The calculators can gauge changes in beef cattle's body condition scores, wildlife and fishery populations, and fertilizer applications among other topics.

"We wanted to create an app that would provide more information for farmers and ranchers, giving them the ability to make better-informed management decisions out in the field," Bryan Nichols, Noble Foundation's livestock consultant, said in a press release. "We chose the calculators that best fit the common situations producers encounter on a daily basis."

The app is available for free download for Apple and Android phones, as well as in an online desktop version. More calculators will be added in the future, Noble Foundation says.

Reminder: Nominate Leaders for NACD Awards

The deadline for submitting nominations for the annual NACD awards is next

As we enter into the final stages of making our educational materials fully digital, we need your feedback! Please fill out this quick survey by Friday, September 16, to offer your opinions on the 2016 Stewardship and Education downloadable materials. Your responses help us to improve our products and our service for the future!

Should you have any concerns or questions about this survey, please feel free to contact us at stewardship@nacdnet.org.

NRCS UPDATES CSP

USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service recently announced improvements to the Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP), making the program more accessible and more transparent for customers and partners. The update will include redesigned planning and evaluation tools, similar to existing NRCS tools, allowing producers to better evaluate their options for conservation planning. NRCS will also take into consideration input from local producers and partners when strategizing further expansion and development of the program to better identify and prioritize areas of concern.

The updates to the nation's largest conservation program will substantially expand its reach, doubling conservation enhancement opportunities such as gypsum and biochar application strategies. The fortification of monarch habitat programs and carbon sequestration programs, along with the utilization of new conservation technologies, will help current conservation stewards to improve their beneficial impacts nationwide. To read NRCS's press release, click here.

DEPARTMENT OF INTERIOR PARTNERS WITH COALITIONWILD FOR NEXT GENERATION OF CONSERVATION LEADERS

Last week, U.S. Secretary of the Interior Sally Jewell announced a partnership with CoalitionWILD to prepare the next generation of conservation leaders with valuable skills, professional mentorship, and networking opportunities. The commitment of the two partners provides an opportunity for collaboration between the federal government and the non-profit, which is run entirely by young people, to develop innovative projects, activities, and events focused on environmentalism. This partnership will connect young conservation leaders with conservation professionals and experts, allowing for innovative projects and strengthening the future of conservation. To read the press release about this partnership, click here.

CHAMPION OF THE MONTH

This month, we shine the spotlight on NACD Soil Health Champion Mike Starkey from Brownsburg, Indiana. Mike is the supervisor for Hendricks County Soil and Water Conservation District and president of the Indiana Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts. Mike farms corn, soybean, and wheat, and raises beef for the freezer-beef market on his family's sixth generation operation, M&J Starkey Farms. The farm has been 100% no-till Wednesday, September 14. The two awards, honoring the distinguished service of an individual and the friendship of conservation partners, are opportunities to recognize conservation leaders for their hard work and commitment to protecting our natural resources. Winners of the awards will be highlighted in future NACD publications and will be invited to a ceremony held in their honor at the 2017 Annual Meeting in Denver.

Nominations for the 2016 awards may be submitted by an individual, organization, agency, or conservation district. For nomination forms and more information, go to NACD's website.

Plan to Attend Partners in Community Forestry Conference

A great opportunity for districts to learn, collaborate, and network is at the Partners in Community Forestry Conference, which will be held November 16-17 in Indianapolis, Indiana. Community forests continue to play an increasingly powerful role in the health and sustainability of our cities, towns, and rural landscapes. The Partners in Community Forestry Conference serves as the annual learning and networking opportunity for urban and community forestry leaders.

Learn more about this year's conference, partnering events, hotel details, and registration information at www.arborday.org/programs/pcf/. You can also receive conference updates from the conference community on Twitter at @PartnersCF.

Add to Your Calendar: Grants Webinar

This Thursday, September 8, at 1:00 p.m. EDT, the Federal Interagency Working Group on Environmental Justice is holding for 15 years and has used cover crops for over 10 years.

Starkey lends his experiences and expertise through articles, videos, and interviews to help others understand the value that these soil health practices have on his bottom line and the environment. He states that his experiences with soil health practices have been 99% positive – virtually eliminating flooding on his fields and surviving the 2012 drought with enough improved water retention.

Starkey also opens his farm for tours and events to provide a platform to showcase conservation benefits. Most recently, he hosted an event on August 23, “Before the Harvest” sponsored by the Indiana Farm Bureau, which drew several hundred people and was attended by three Indiana gubernatorial candidates. Starkey took a moment to speak at length to the candidates as well as the crowd regarding the need for improved funding for Indiana conservation programs – one issue being addressed in the upcoming 2017 session of the Indiana General Assembly.

Be sure to check out Mike Starkey's profile on the NACD website along with the many other members in our network. If you or someone you know is a leader in soil health and would like to become a member of this growing, progressive network please contact NACD North Central Region Representative Beth Mason at beth-mason@nacdn.net or 317-946-4463 for more information.

a webinar entitled "Increasing Awareness of Federal Grants and Resource Opportunities." The webinar will cover the federal grant process, federal grant opportunities, and how to navigate and use grants.gov. The webinar is free, but registration is required.

Tell Friend

Dear Conservation District Leader:

The National Association of Conservation Districts, as part of the National Conservation Planning Partnership, is working with NRCS, NASCA, NARC&DC and NCDEA, to seek feedback on how we can improve the delivery of conservation planning assistance to farmers and ranchers. Two weeks ago, we sent the following request, but recognize with the beginning of school and the Labor Day holiday the message may have been buried in your inbox.

We are seeking informed opinions from each of your district board members on their views and experiences regarding the conservation planning process. We would appreciate it very much if you would send this email notice to the elected and appointed district officials on your district board. Please ask them to be part of this effort by individually taking a brief online survey. They will not be identified as individuals, and the data will be compiled from all district officials who respond to the survey. The survey is fairly short and most folks can complete it in 8-10 minutes. A few (258) district officials responded to a more limited pilot mailing we did in May. If your member has responded they do not need to respond a second time.

Please have district board members respond by Tuesday, September 27, 2016 if possible.

Should you have questions, please contact Rich Duesterhaus with NACD at rich-duesterhaus@nacdn.net.org.

Thank you for your help on this very important initiative!

Sincerely,

Jeremy

USDA Announces \$26 Million Investment to Spur Agricultural Innovation via USDA

The USDA announced the investment of $26.6 million into 45 projects that will spur innovative conservation initiatives on both rural and urban farms across the country. Public and private grantees will provide matching investments, bringing the total value of support to $59 million. The 2016 projects focus on water quality, conservation finance and assistance to historically underserved USDA customers.

BLM horse program at epic low point via Elko Daily Free Press

(Opinion) Nevadans are especially sensitive because of the sheer number of horses here. Ranchers deal with the horses' impact on their livelihoods, just as they do with elk and other wildlife, but that doesn't mean Nevada is full of horse-haters. But we are aware — perhaps more than people living in any other state — of the extent to which the federal government's system of handling horses has failed. This failure is not an accusation on our part, it's a fact.

Obama, on historic Midway Island, touts his conservation efforts via USA Today

President Obama visited one of the USA's most remote island territories Thursday to tout his conservation record and highlight the threat that climate change poses to Pacific islands.

CSP: Headed in the right direction via Agri-Pulse

(Opinion) Last week the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) announced updates to the Conservation Stewardship Program (CSP) including more than 200 enhancements, nearly double the previous number. These are the specific conservation management activities that farmers and ranchers agree to implement that take them to the next level beyond minimum conservation standards.

So many trees have died that scientists want to burn them instead of coal via StarTribune

California, wracked by drought, has 66 million dead trees across its landscape. They've been killed by both the drought itself and by voracious bark beetles, and now they're just sitting there — destined to either decompose, burn in a wildfire, or be incinerated, for safety reasons, by state fire managers before the next blaze comes along. Belmont is studying an intriguing solution for what to do with all these dangerous dead trees — namely, burn them for energy.

Yosemite National Park Grows Toward West In Largest Expansion Since 1949 via NPR

Yosemite National Park is growing by 400 acres — the largest expansion to the park since 1949. The area includes a sprawling grassy meadow, wetlands and rolling hills dotted with tall pine trees, and is known to be home to at least two endangered species.

FWS to decide on ESA protections for fisher, 8 other species via Associated Press

The U.S. government agreed Tuesday to decide over the next several years if federal protections are needed to help a small, fanged predator of the Northern Rockies, massive alligator snapping turtles in the South and seven other troubled species that in some cases have awaited action for years.

Farm Bureau group moves closer to backing water quality funding via The Des Moines Register

A powerful farm group took a step Wednesday toward supporting a long-term funding source for water quality, with some members arguing the state needs to aggressively ramp up conservation spending to avoid unwanted regulations. The group has broadly supported conservation funding, but it's the first time it has moved to support new funding for water quality.

10,000-acre fire planned to reduce risk of wildfire via Great Falls Tribune

The U.S. Forest Service is planning a 10,000-acre fire treatment to create fuel breaks in a large area of continuous stands of trees on the eastern border of the Helena-Lewis and Clark National Forest southwest of Augusta that a district ranger says are primed to burn.

First-of-kind study suggests cover crop mixtures increase agroecosystem services via Penn State News

As continued research yields more precise information about optimal cover-crop seed mixtures and planting rates, Kaye predicted, farmers will deploy this strategy to enhance soil quality, control weed growth, manage critical nutrients such as nitrogen, improve crop yields and reduce nutrient runoff.

Paying More Than 4 Percent Interest?

Many special districts are looking into restructuring debt obligations to take advantage of today's low interest rates. If your district is paying 4% or higher for a 20-year loan, or 3% or higher for a 10-year loan, you may have an opportunity to save costs by refinancing at a lower rate. The CSDA Finance Corporation offers refinancing strategies designed to reduce your district's budget pressures and free up cash for mission-critical operations. Visit CSDA Finance Corporation at www.csdafinance.net or call 877.924.2732 to learn more.

Weekly News Briefs from NACD

VOLUNTARY CONSERVATION YIELDS BIG REWARDS IN CHESAPEAKE BAY

Last Friday, NACD President Lee McDaniel, CEO Jeremy Peters, and Director of Communications Whitney Forman-Cook traveled to Y Worry Farm in Davidsonville, Md., to join Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack and NRCS Chief Jason Weller in celebrating the profound difference farmers have made within the Chesapeake Bay watershed by using voluntary conservation practices.

McDaniel met with Sec. Vilsack that morning, along with NRCS officials and commodity group leaders, to discuss pertinent issues like the next farm bill. McDaniel relayed that the secretary encouraged commodity and conservation groups to work together on farm bill policy and to spread the message that voluntary conservation efforts work, and work well.

Senate introduces bill to improve access to conservation assistance

Sens. Amy Klobuchar, D-Minn., and John Boozman, R-Ark., introduced a companion bill last week that would exempt landowners participating in voluntary conservation programs from SAM and DUNS reporting requirements.

"The best conservation on the ground today was put there through voluntary efforts by American producers," NACD CEO Jeremy Peters said. "It's time we recognize that and remove the barriers to participating in NRCS' incentive-based programs, starting with the SAM and DUNS requirements."

WE'VE RECEIVED 2017'S FIRST LIVE AUCTION DONATION!

Barely a week after opening registration for the 2017 Annual Meeting, we've received our first live auction donation! Green Cover Seed has graciously donated an aluminum display case containing seeds from 48 different cover crop species.

Keith Berns, co-owner of Green Cover Seed, says the donation is "a way of giving back to NACD for all the support that they give to farmers in our joint and ongoing effort to protect the God-given resources that we have been blessed with."

Keith and his brother Brian started the company from "the ground up" on their diversified, no-till farm in south central Nebraska. Over the past six years, Green Cover Seed has grown to be one of the largest providers of cover crop seed and education in the country. To learn more about Keith and Brian Berns, check out their NACD Soil Health Champion profile.

NACD's live auction is made possible by your generosity. Every donation is greatly appreciated and we look forward to highlighting them in future editions of eResource, on NACD's Facebook event page, and on our website.

GOOD AND BAD NEWS OUT OF NEVADA ON WILD HORSES

Last week the BLM's Wild Horse and Burro Advisory Board met for two days in Elko, Nevada. First on the agenda was a tour of a nearby Herd Management Area where wild horse populations are well over the Appropriate Management Level. The board heard comments from individuals, counties, and organizations, too, including the awards is tomorrow, Wednesday, September 14. The two awards, honoring the distinguished service of an individual and the friendship of conservation partners, are opportunities to recognize conservation leaders for their hard work and commitment to protecting our natural resources. Winners of the awards will be highlighted in future NACD publications and will be invited to a ceremony held in their honor at the 2017 Annual Meeting in Denver.

Nominations for the 2016 awards may be submitted by an individual, organization, agency, or conservation district. For nomination forms and more information, go to NACD's website.

Reminder: Webinar on climate toolkit this Thursday

NACD is holding an Urban and Community Conservation webinar, sponsored by The Scotts-Miracle Gro Company, on Thursday, September 15, from noon to 1:00pm Eastern on the U.S. Climate Resilience Toolkit.

NOAA Liaison Ned Gardiner will explain how building climate resilience and taking a climate-smart approach to protecting people and assets can boost economies, create jobs, and improve the health of local ecosystems. To participate, email NACD's Debra Bogar at deb-bogar@nacdn.net with your title, district or business name, and state.

Call for proposals: Joint Chiefs' Landscape Restoration Partnership

NRCS and the Forest Service's Joint Chiefs' Landscape Restoration Partnership is now accepting Nevada Association of Conservation Districts, the Wild Horse and Burro Rangeland Management Coalition, and NACD.

As the meeting concluded, the board issued a recommendation to the BLM to allow for the unrestricted sale of horses and burros that are not adopted. The agency also announced Friday it would be abandoning its surgical sterilization program in Oregon. For a look at how the Advisory Board came to the decision on unrestricted sale, check out board member Ben Masters' blog for a detailed account.

YOUR CAPITOL HILL POLICY UPDATE

As the end of this fiscal year looms, Congress is working to set up a funding plan for the next one, which starts on October 1. Under regular order, each chamber of Congress would have passed 12 individual appropriations bills; however, as has been the case for the past several years, Congress has failed to send any of those bills to the president's desk, and as a result, is scrambling to keep the federal government from shutting down. While some of the programs that conservation districts use are funded through mandatory budget allocations, others, including the funds that pay NRCS staff salaries, are covered by the discretionary side of the budget, which is subject to change annually. There is a consensus growing in Washington that Congress will fund the federal government past the presidential election and into the lame duck session. In the interim, NACD will continue to monitor Congress' progress and advocate for strong voluntary conservation program funding.

funding proposals for Fiscal Year 2017. The partnership was formed to promote cross-boundary restoration efforts between federal and non-governmental stakeholders that reduce and mitigate wildfire threats, protect water quality and supply, and improve habitat quality.

Projects should seek to improve the health of forest and rangeland ecosystems on private and/or federal land. Electronic proposals are due by October 17 to NRCS Conservation Initiative Coordinator Luther Jones and FS Forest Fire Management Officer Laurie Kurth. Please contact NACD Forestry Specialist Mike Beacom for the required proposal template.

Is the West's Wild Horse Crisis So Bad Only Euthanasia Can Fix It? via National Geographic

At the board's biannual meeting, held last week in Elko, Nevada, Masters surprised his supporters by joining an eight to one vote in favor of adding the use of euthanasia as a tool for the BLM in managing its overcrowded holding facilities. The agency is overburdened, he says, with the $50 million annual cost of caring for 45,000 surplus horses and burros kept in BLM holding facilities across the country. Euthanasia would be a final measure, after horses are given a final chance for adoption, or placed in new sanctuaries or public lands that might become available

Senate Ag panel approves wildfire management bill via Agri-Pulse

The Senate Agriculture Committee on Tuesday approved a bill aimed at helping the U.S. Forest Service (USFS) deal with its increasing expensive fire-fighting efforts and to improve forest management activities. Sen. Debbie Stabenow of Michigan, the committee's ranking member, said she was pleased that the bill begins to address the problem of fire-borrowing, by which the USFS is routinely forced to transfer funds from key projects like forest restoration and timber sales to help pay for firefighting.

Behind the Monsanto Deal, Doubts About the GMO Revolution via The Wall Street Journal

Since their introduction to U.S. farms 20 years ago, genetically engineered seeds have become like mobile phones—multifunctional and ubiquitous. Today, farmers are finding it harder to justify the high and often rising prices for modified seed, given the measly returns of the current farm economy.

Farm group to offer aid on bad wells via Milwaukee Journal Sentinel

A farm group in northeastern Wisconsin announced plans on Wednesday to supply water to residents with tainted wells in Kewaunee County, where the practice of manure spreading — especially by large-scale farms with thousands of cattle — has been a contentious political topic. In an unprecedented step, Peninsula Pride

Farms will provide water and a subsidy for a system to treat it in selected cases — regardless of whether the source of contamination is from animal waste or another form of pollution.

Ag secretary says private investment needed to help sage grouse via Associated Press

U.S. Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack announced grants on Thursday for a pair of programs that will attempt to use private financing to conserve land across the Western U.S. as part of a sweeping effort to restore the greater sage grouse's habitat. Vilsack told The Associated Press that such private sector investment is needed to supplement $400 million already spent under the agency's sage grouse restoration initiative.

Herbicide-resistant weeds challenge farmers' bottom lines via The Topeka Capital-Journal

Hardy weeds that have developed resistance to herbicides are challenging Kansas soybean and corn farmers to adapt their chemical applications, and some have added tillage back into their control methods.

US infrastructure and rural prosperity: Are we falling behind? via Agri-Pulse

When it comes to the sectors of the nation's infrastructure in need of repairs, an overwhelming majority of registered voters say that roads (92 percent), bridges (89 percent), water pipelines (88 percent), energy grids (80 percent), railways (80 percent) and dams (76 percent) are all in some to extreme need of repairs.

Commentary: Finding common ground that sustains our future via HeraldNet

The recent Farm-to-Table dinner hosted by the Sustainable Land Strategy, Agriculture Caucus, Snohomish Conservation District and the Snohomish County Farm Bureau brought together a remarkably diverse 75-person group that included tribal leaders, flood control and drainage districts, big and small farmers, conservation groups and high-level government officials. The SLS and its partners are also developing innovative models around conservation easements and the purchasing of development rights, incentives for stewardship practices and climate resiliency planning.

Broad coalition to push for sales tax hike targeted at water quality via The Des Moines Register

Organizers said they are launching a larger and stronger Iowa's Water and Land Legacy Coalition that will propose raising the state sales tax by three-eighths of 1 cent in the 2017 session of the Iowa Legislature, which convenes in January. The additional $180 million in state revenue would support initiatives that would include cleaning up the state's dirty rivers and streams, upgrading soil conservation, and enhancing wildlife and outdoor recreation programs.

Red wolves will still be protected — but more by zoos than in the wild via The Washington Post

Cindy Dohner, southeast regional director for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, said doubling the number of captive wolves to 400 in zoos across the country is the only way to save red wolves. To do that, the service will attempt to increase the number of mating pairs from 29 to at least 52.

President
Temecula-Elsinore-Murrieta-Anza Resource Conservation District
Post Office Box 2078
Temecula, California 92593

Re: President's Special Acknowledgement Award – Property/Liability Program

Dear Ms. Corona:

This letter and enclosed certificate, are to formally acknowledge the dedicated efforts of the Temecula-Elsinore-Murrieta-Anza Resource Conservation District's Governing Body, management and staff towards proactive risk management and loss prevention training for earning the President's Special Acknowledgement Award! The Award is to recognize members with no "paid" claims during the prior five consecutive program years in the Property/Liability Program.

A "paid" claim for the purposes of this recognition represents the first payment on an open claim during the prior program year and excludes property claims. Your agency's efforts have resulted in no "paid" property/liability claims for the prior 5 consecutive program years including 2015-16. This is an outstanding accomplishment that serves as an example for all SDRMA members!

It is through the efforts of members such as Temecula-Elsinore-Murrieta-Anza Resource Conservation District that SDRMA has been able to continue providing affordable property/liability coverage to over 500 public agencies throughout California. While 425 members or 85% in the property/liability program had no "paid" claims in program year 2015-16, 300 members or 60% had no paid claims for the prior 5 consecutive years.

In addition to this annual recognition, members with no "paid" claims during 2015-16 earned 2 credit incentive points (CIPs) reducing their annual contribution amount and members with no "paid" claims for the prior 5 consecutive program years earned 3 additional bonus CIPs. Also, members with no "paid" claims for at least 3 consecutive program years may receive a lower "risk factor" which also helps to reduce the annual contribution amount.

Included with this letter and certificate is your press release template so your agency may showcase this important accomplishment.

On behalf of the SDRMA Board of Directors and staff, it is my honor to congratulate your Governing Body, management and staff for your commitment to proactive risk management and loss prevention training.

Sincerely,
Special District Risk Management Authority

David Aranda, President
Board of Directors

The President's Special Acknowledgement Award is to recognize members with no "paid" claims during the prior five consecutive program years in the Property/Liability Program. Congratulations on your excellent claims record!

FORESTRY TOUR IN CALIFORNIA SHOWCASES CD- LED CONSERVATION

Last Thursday, regional leaders who gathered in Sacramento for NACD's annual Pacific-Southwest Regional Meeting were treated to a forestry tour showcase of conservation districts in northern California.

The first stop was located in Placer County, California, in the foothills of the Sierra Nevada Mountains. Placer County RCD board member, Steve Garcia, spoke there about the important role conservation districts play in forest and wildfire fuels management. At the site, conservation district representatives from throughout the region were able to see a timber stand that was owned and managed by Pacifica Gas and Electric. The property had been thinned and managed to be resistant to wildfire, insects, and disease, despite there being little timber industry involvement left in the area to help implement best management practices.

At NYFC, he primarily focused on access to credit, farmland transition, and agricultural easement programs. Prior to NYFC, he held a fellowship with the Senate Agriculture Committee during the development and passage of the 2014 Farm Bill. Eric holds a bachelor's degree from Colby College and a master's from Duke in environmental policy. He is excited to be working on conservation issues again with NACD.

Garcia explained that for this property, the most effective means of treatment was to harvest trees for biomass utilization. However even with the progressive management that was implemented, the area is now seeing damage from pine beetle and is challenged by drought.

Luckily conservation districts can provide the outreach and education necessary to help landowners make informed decisions about managing their forested acreage to maximize overall forest health and timber quality, and reduce the risk of wildfire. ## CARCD HOSTS PACIFIC-SOUTHWEST REGIONAL MEETING

The California Association of Resource Conservation Districts hosted NACD's joint Pacific-Southwest Regional Meeting in Sacramento last week. Fifty-five attendees, including the furthest traveler Roland Quitugua from Guam, first heard Karen Ross, California's food and agriculture secretary, give a keynote address on carbon farming. After a panel discussion on forestry and wildfire took place, an afternoon session focused on the future of conservation districts and state associations.

The conservation tour on Thursday started with a visit to an organic walnut ranch. The operation's owner conserves moisture in his soils with compost and pulverized walnut shells, provides nutrients to his trees using soil health practices, and controls pests without the application of pesticides by using a unique blend of legumes and flowering forbs at different times during the growing season to attract beneficial insects that prey on walnut pests. The Yolo and Solano Resource Conservation Districts hosted a Farm-to-Fork lunch at another farm that provides hands-on training for aspiring new farmers.

NACD's Marketplace sale on printed educational and stewardship materials ends this Friday, September 23. Don't miss out on the 75 percent discount we're offering on these materials – they won't be available for much longer!

If you have any questions regarding the sale, contact stewardship@nacdnet.org.

Annual meeting spotlight: Pack-A-Book

Proceeds and donated books collected through the 2017 edition of the Pack-A-Book program will be given to students of North Elementary in Brighton, Colorado, at the request of Colorado's state association of conservation districts.

The 2017 Annual Meeting will mark the tenth year running for NACD's community outreach program Pack-A-Book. Through Pack-A-Book and your generosity, NACD has donated more than 1,000 books to elementary schools located within our annual meetings' host cities.

You can be a part of this project by packing one or more natural resource, environmental, or conservation-related book(s) for your trip to Denver. Simply drop them off at the Stewardship and Education Exhibit in the Conservation Expo Hall sometime during the 2017 Annual Meeting, or contact stewardship@nacdnet.org for shipping instructions.

For your calendar: Several congressional hearings coming up

This week, NACD is monitoring two hearings on Capitol Hill. Tomorrow at 2:30pm EDT, the Tour attendees also experienced the Sierra foothills where they were briefed on the forest health and tree mortality issues plaguing California conifers. The Placer RCD later treated participants to a wine tasting at Lone Buffalo Winery, and the tour ended with dinner and an auction. Next year's Pacific-Southwest Regional Meeting will be held in Arizona. Be sure to check out NACD's website for updates as they become available.

USDA LAUNCHES $328 MILLION RESTORATION IN THE GULF OF MEXICO

USDA announced yesterday it will support conservation investments on agricultural lands in the Gulf of Mexico region with $328 million in funding. The three-year, farm bill funded strategy is part of USDA's ongoing effort to improve water quality and help coastal ecosystems heal following the Deepwater Horizon oil spill.

Technical and financial assistance will be provided to landowners through EQIP, CSP, and ACEP to key coastal counties and parishes in the five gulf states. From now through 2018, NRCS will help these agricultural producers plan and implement conservation improvements on 3.2 million acres. For more information, take a look at USDA's press release.

Hello all,

We are pleased to announce that today, the Office of Administrative Law published our DRAFT RCD Accreditation Program Regulations for public comment. The regulations will guide the implementation of the voluntary RCD Accreditation Program. The Accreditation Program is the next step in implementing the Vision and Standards adopted by the RCDs in 2014.

This is the first step in making the program official. This set of regulations addresses the Good Governance Tier 1 portion of the program. After we have received and responded to the input we receive, the next step will be to officially launch the Tier 1 portion of the voluntary accreditation program. Your input to this process is vital: please provide us with any comments you have before they become official. The comment period begins today and ends on November 21, 2016. You can access the regulations on our website here:

<http://www.conservation.ca.gov/dlrp/RCD/publications/Pages/Regulations.aspx>

And, if you are interested you can view the notice on the OAL website here:

<http://www.oal.ca.gov/res/docs/pdf/notice/39z-2016.pdf>

Please take a look and let us know what you think. We are still working on developing the accreditation program for Tier 2 and Tier 3 and will release DRAFT regulations for comment when complete. Thank you in advance for your input on this exciting new program and the hard work you have already done to reach the Vision and Standards!

Please excuse any duplicate emails.

Did you know the North Carolina Association of Conservation Districts created a standalone 501(c)3 in 1999? ## RECAP: HOUSE HEARING ON CHESAPEAKE BAY

Last Thursday, the House Agriculture Committees' Conservation and Forestry Subcommittee held a hearing on the Chesapeake Bay and the voluntary conservation efforts that have made a remarkable difference in the health of the watershed. NRCS Chief Jason Weller testified that agriculture-led conservation in the bay between 2006 and 2011 led to a 15.1 million ton decrease in edge-of-field sediment loss, a 26 percent decrease in nitrogen loss, and a 45 percent decrease in phosphorus loss.

Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture Secretary Russell Redding also cited success stories in the six-state watershed made possible by the agriculture industry. There's more that must be done to achieve further reductions, Secretary Redding said, and "There's not a way forward without conservation districts... They've been great partners, and we'll continue to work with them."

NACD Director of Government Affairs Coleman Garrison attended the hearing and provided comments to press. Read the Agri-Pulse story that features Coleman here.

NACD ATTENDS NASF ANNUAL MEETING

Members of the forestry community and NACD Forestry Specialist Mike Beacom gathered in Savannah, Georgia, last week for the National Association of State Foresters' annual meeting.

Topic themes during the general session included, "Building a Shared Vision for Urban and Community Forests," and "Sustaining Working Rural Forests." A common topic of discussion during the three-day meeting was the need for Congress to pass a wildfire funding fix.

During the field tour, the group was able to observe active forest management at Lebanon Plantation (pictured), and received a guided tour through the Port of Savannah, which handles a significant portion of the domestic forest products trade. ### NCF Executive Committee meets in Washington

The National Conservation Foundation (NCF) Executive Committee met in Washington, D.C., last week to work on annual planning, establish Envirothon policies, and set other goals and priorities for the next year. It is the mission of the foundation to encourage and facilitate the implementation of programs and services that advance the wise use and orderly development of the nation's natural resources. Since 2014, the NCF has also operated the Envirothon at the international level.

In attendance were Chairman Steve Robinson, Vice Chairman Tim Reich, Treasurer John Redding, Presidents Association Representative Irvil Kear, and Joint Funding Committee Chairman Gene Schmidt. NACD President Lee McDaniel participated in a portion of the meeting, and NACD staff Jeremy Peters, Melisa Augusto, and Rich Duesterhaus were also in attendance.

Last Wednesday, NACD President Lee McDaniel (pictured at left with IECA Executive Director Sharan Wilson) joined members of the Mid Atlantic Chapter of the International Erosion Control Association in Annapolis to lay the ground work for future partnerships.

"IECA is similar to NACD in many ways," Lee said in his address. "We're both non-profit, diverse member organizations that provide education and resources for conservation leaders."

"Our districts are always looking to partner with organizations and individuals who are dedicated to the same conservation values that NACD and IECA champion," he continued. For more information about IECA and their 2,500 international members, visit the website.

ENVIROTHON ALUMS WHO BONDED YEARS AGO RECONNECT

Four years after the 2012 Envirothon, members of the Kodiak, Alaska, and Newfoundland teams have met again in Fairbanks.

Michaela Pye, a member of the Newfoundland and Labrador team out of Canada, is doing an exchange year at University of Alaska Fairbanks, where Hannah is currently studying, and Lachlan just so happened to be stationed in Fairbanks with the military. "We thought it was a pretty neat thing. We all met at Envirothon in Montana (2012) and joked about visiting each other one day. I guess the time had come!" Pye said.

To receive more information about NCF or its projects, please contact NACD Director of Development Melisa Augusto.

Webinar on riparian restoration projects in Canada scheduled for tomorrow

The International Erosion Control Association will be hosting a webinar on wetland, stream bank, and shoreline restoration tomorrow, Wednesday Sept. 28, from 12:00 to 1:00pm Central. IECA members will be charged $50 to participate (non-members, $65) and may qualify for professional development credit. For more information, click here.

Farmers care about the bay, too via The Baltimore Sun

(Opinion) The Chesapeake Bay, the largest estuary in North America, is home to more than 83,000 farms that together generate $10 billion in economic activity each year. For decades, these producers have stepped up all across the watershed, assumed responsibility for their share of the nutrient and sediment pollution in the bay, and worked tirelessly toward unprecedented, remarkable change.

Jewell, Hickenlooper nurture "epic collaboration" in $760M western push to save endangered sage grouse via The Denver Post

The federal government and non-profit partners plan to spend another $360 million to spur states, landowners and developers to save the imperiled greater sage grouse across a Texas-sized area of sagebrush steppe spanning 11 Western states. That money drives the "collaborative conservation" launched a year ago that Interior Secretary Sally Jewell, Colorado Gov. John Hickenlooper and other Western leaders see as an alternative to federal Endangered Species Act protection for species facing extinction that need large landscapes to survive.

Wildfire rehab in Idaho, Oregon includes fall herbicide via Capital Press

The federal government's 5-year, $67 million rehabilitation effort following a 2015 rangeland wildfire in southwest Idaho and southeast Oregon is entering its second year with another round of herbicide applications combined with plantings of native species. The rehabilitation is part of the federal government's plan to develop new strategies to combat increasingly destructive rangeland wildfires, mainly in Great Basin states.

On the Bright Side: NYC establishes $43M fund to preserve watershed land via The Daily Star

Money from the endowment will be used to perform aerial and ground monitoring of the easements and to guard their boundaries against encroachment. The stewardship fund will also be used to protect the water quality of the New York City watersheds, and to oversee any farm, timber or other projects on these working landscapes to ensure the water quality is protected, the release said.

Why Industrial Farms Are Good for the Environment via The New York Times

(Opinion) These technologies reduce the use of water and fertilizer and harm to the environment. Modern seed varieties, some of which were brought about by biotechnology, have allowed farmers to convert to low- and no-till cropping systems, and can encourage the adoption of nitrogen-fixing cover crops such as clover or alfalfa to promote soil health.

Stabenow bill aims to expand federal help for urban farming via Detroit Free Press

Senator Debbie Stabenow, D-Mich., introduced the Urban Agriculture Act of 2016, a bill she said she hopes will become part of the next national five-year farm bill in 2018. Stabenow said it's the most comprehensive proposal of its kind for urban agriculture, calling for an expansion of federal financial assistance, research and risk management tools, education and mentorship for urban farmers, and a new urban agriculture office within the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Eight ideas for improving ag policy to benefit farmers and the planet via The Washington Post

(Opinion) The good news is that there's significant overlap between farm interest and public interest; it's certainly in the public's interest to have a safe, affordable, varied food supply, and it's certainly in farmers' interest to maintain the health and viability of their land. (Every farmer I speak with emphasizes that.)

New US endangered species listing rules: A better path to conservation? via The Christian Science Monitor

Starting next month, conservationists will only be able to petition for one species at a time when seeking federal protections under the US Endangered Species Act. Previously, it was possible to file a single petition on behalf of several species.

Iowa flooding sucker-punches harvest via The Des Moines Register

Iowa's widespread thunderstorms and torrential rains have done more than flood Iowa's cities and towns. They have also slowed much of the state's corn and soybean harvest. Officials are trying to assess how many acres have been impacted by flooding, but it's likely to be thousands, they say.

Puerto Rico Finds Unexpected Source of Growth in Agriculture via Associated Press

The U.S. territory is seeing something of an agricultural renaissance as new farms spring up across the island, supplying an increasing number of farmers' markets and restaurants to meet consumer demand for fresher produce.

State creates pesticide buffer zones around schools, day care via Los Angeles Times

Crop dusting and many other forms of pesticide spraying will be banned within a quarter of a mile of schools and child day-care centers during the bulk of daylight hours, under a rule proposed by the California Department of Pesticide Regulation. The proposed regulation, which would take effect next September, is the first statewide rule governing how pesticides can be applied in areas where farms lie close to facilities where children congregate.

NACD OP-ED ON FARMER-LED, VOLUNTARY CONSERVATION HITS BALTIMORE NEWSSTANDS

NACD President Lee McDaniel, in partnership with National Corn Growers Association President Chip Bowling and American Soybean Association President Richard Wilkins, penned an op-ed for The Baltimore Sun last week that emphasized the success of voluntary conservation efforts by farmers in improving the health of the Chesapeake Bay.

"For decades, these producers have stepped up all across the watershed, assumed responsibility for their share of the nutrient and sediment pollution in the bay, and worked tirelessly toward unprecedented, remarkable change. Just in the past seven years, the agriculture sector has single-handedly reduced its phosphorus and sediment runoff in the watershed by 50 and 75 percent respectively."

The association presidents celebrate the improvements made by farmers, saying, "We are proud of what our membership has accomplished in the bay over the past several decades and believe it is our duty to share their story with you."

From Capitol Hill: An appropriations update

On Thursday, September 29, one day before the federal government was to shut down, President Obama signed a Continuing Resolution (CR) into law, keeping the federal government open through December 9, 2016. The CR, which was passed by both the Senate and the House of Representatives on Wednesday, will fund the federal government for the first two months of FY 2017 at the same appropriated levels provided in FY 2016. Between now and December 9, Congress will need to decide whether to continue funding the government at prior levels, or pass an appropriations bill (or bills) with new funding levels.

JOINT FORESTRY TEAM WEBSITE IS UP AND RUNNING

The Joint Forestry Team recently launched a new website to highlight some of America's best forestry partnerships and all-lands projects. The Joint Forestry Team consists of representatives from the U.S. Forest Service, NRCS, the National Association of State Foresters, and NACD. Its purpose is to make recommendations that improve interagency and private/public sector coordination in the delivery of forestry and conservation assistance on working lands.

The new website has information on state-level, forestry management memorandums of understanding (MOUs) and features regular content on multi-partner forestry projects. Soon, the website will include a state-by-state directory of forestry contacts.

NASCA, PARTNERS, AND CONSERVATION LEADERS GATHER IN BRANSON

The National Association of State Conservation Agencies (NASCA) held their 2011 annual meeting September 26-28 in Branson, Missouri. The meeting focused on the changing nature of soil and water conservation delivery across the U.S. and provided the opportunity for dialogue between conservation partner leaders and NASCA members.

Conservation districts were represented at the meeting with NACD President Lee McDaniel (pictured here), CEO Jeremy Peters, and Director of Projects and Partnerships Rich Duesterhaus attending. In his opening comments, President McDaniel provided his perspectives on growing the base of support for conservation beyond traditional customers to include broader constituencies, including urban areas. McDaniel and Peters updated NASCA's members on NACD's activities on building conservation planning capacity, conservation bootcamp, urban agriculture conservation grants, as well as planning for the 2018 farm bill, and the latest policy updates. NACD also participated on a panel discussion with partner leaders on efforts

Because we value your experiences and opinions, NACD is inviting our conservation district members to participate in a survey regarding the association's annual poster contest. We believe your feedback on the contest will help us boost participation in the competition and streamline the contest's rules.

Please click here to be redirected to a survey that will take just five minutes of your time to complete. The last day to send in your feedback is Monday, October 17.

NACD at the table for conversations on future of agriculture

Last week, NACD Northeast Region Representative and Policy Specialist Eric Hansen participated in the fall Coalition on Agricultural Greenhouse Gases (C-AGG) meeting in Washington, D.C. This meeting brings together farm organizations, carbon offset developers, agricultural companies, environmental groups, and USDA staff to discuss opportunities for farmers to be compensated and recognized for steps to improve the ecosystem services (including carbon sequestration) on their land. There are a number of voluntary initiatives taking place around the country, and this meeting provided an opportunity to learn from their best practices and plan for the future.

NACD Director of Government Affairs Coleman Garrison joined Eric Friday for a conference hosted by George Washington University on urban agriculture and the next farm bill. This conference brought together policy makers, advocates, farmers, and students to learn about the opportunities and challenges in urban agriculture, in the hope that urban agriculture will take a more prominent role in the next farm bill.

For more information on these meetings or to discuss the to sustain voluntary conservation. Next year's NASCA annual meeting will be held September 25-27 in Nebraska City, Nebraska.

NACD'S STATE EXECUTIVE DIRECTORS MEET IN LITTLE ROCK

This past week, executive directors from fifteen state associations gathered in Little Rock, Arkansas, for the 14th annual State Association Executive Directors' Conference. Half of those in attendance were first-time attendees and relatively new to their positions with their state associations.

The highlight of the program was a specially designed 4-hour professional development workshop entitled "Recharge Your Brain, Renew Your Brand, and Release Your Potential" with nationally known speaker/trainer, Randy Frazier. Other session topics included strategic planning, partnerships, NACD Soil Health Champions, and state association annual meetings.

The conservation tour throughout Arkansas included a visit to Alotian Golf Club (pictured at right) to learn about their conservation efforts in nutrient management and protecting the drinking water source.

The program ended at the Five Oaks Duck Lodge where owner and manager George Dunklin, Jr. shared the land's history and their efforts in sustainability and conservation. Special guest speaker Harrison Pittman from the National Agricultural Law Center in Fayetteville discussed environmental legal issues.

CHAMPION OF THE MONTH

Bryce Wrigley and his family farm 1,700 acres of covered barley, hull-less barley, peas, and canola in Delta, Alaska. They also own and operate the Alaska Flour Company, where they mill the hull-less barley into flour, cereal, couscous, and a wide variety of other products. The Wrigleys started the flour mill to increase Alaska's self-reliance, create new markets for other farmers, and offer an opportunity for their five children and eight grandchildren to return to the farm.

The Wrigley's entry into soil health was influenced by several factors. Under conventional tillage, it took six pieces of equipment to plant a crop, each with a driver. As their labor force dwindled ("the kids left home" says Bryce), they ran out of equipment operators; now Bryce can plant the crops by himself. The Wrigleys also wanted to convert some Conservation Reserve Program ground to cropland but didn't want to disturb the many good things that happened to the soil over the last 20 years. Most people assume Alaska is cold and snowy, but the Delta area only receives about 12 inches of precipitation a year, so conserving moisture is critical to soil health. The Wrigleys knew they needed to look at the whole crop production as a system – in relation to pest-predator balance and microbial interactions rather than just seed, fertilizer, and water – and switched from conventional tillage to no-till about five years ago.

Besides no-till, their other soil health practices include soil sampling to track residual soil nutrients, crop rotations including yellow field peas to control grasses associated with grain production, and field windbreaks. Spring rains are critical in germinating the area's crops and during years when the rains are late, the Wrigleys have good soil moisture while his neighbors, who practice conventional tillage, have little.

It is obvious that the Wrigleys are leading the way to incorporate soil health practices into their farming operation and address the issues that make farming in their environment a challenge.
